

Headteacher Message

'the smallest things sometimes take up the most room in our hearts'

The shorter week due to the Bank Holiday has filled school with a buzz of busyness everywhere! The children have certainly packed in as much learning as possible over the past four days. Year 1 performed brilliantly in their assembly and their excited faces were a joy to see. Year 6 have been working incredibly hard in their final week before SATs. They have supported one another and shared tips and methods as a whole class. They have made us proud already and I know they will make us incredibly proud of their efforts next week.

Have a lovely weekend, Mrs. L. Wilson

In the news this week

Danielle Webb, who is 23 and lives with dwarfism, recently wrote a book and regularly visits schools to help educate others about her condition in a bid to stamp out prejudice. Danielle said that changing the minds of adults was difficult, so her focus was on educating children. The student, who is 3ft 11.5in (1.2m), said being called names and laughed at "just becomes our norm"; so her new book, 'Mummy, there's a new girl', tells the story of a girl who is picked on for her looks before a brave child looks past her differences and learns that size is no big deal.

Things to talk about at home ...

- > Why do you think Danielle decided to write the book? How do you think Danielle's book might help people to understand differences?
- > Discuss the phrase 'never judge a book by its cover'. What do you think this means and do you agree?
